

Happy and healthy kids

Giggles Early Learning is raising healthy and happy children with Smithton Guardian Pharmacy.

The local pharmacy has joined Chemists' Own's 2019 Help Us Help Our Local Community initiative.

The annual campaign aims to raise funds through donations and sales from the Chemists' Own Children's Range to donate to local early learning centres.

From now until December, purchase a product for Giggles to go in the running to win one of five $1000 Educational Experience vouchers. Smithton Pharmacy will also go in the draw for one of five Help Us A+ Awards for contributing to the community. Pharmacy assistant Constance Perry said Chemists' Own products are a cost-effective range for growing families.

"It's a cheaper alternative for children's medications," she said.

"A saving of four or five dollars can make a big difference to families."

Giggles Early Learning owner Linda Wooldrage said the initiative is an opportunity to educate children.

"It's an opportunity for us to talk about medication with the children, to have discussions about safety and health and well-being," she said.

As part of the campaign, Chemists' Own has released a children's activity book for youngsters to indulge in, available in store.

Smithton Guardian Pharmacy's Constance Perry and Kathy O'Connor with Giggles Early Learning children Macklen Coombs, 3, Levi Jackson, 2, Nate House, 3, Kade Hodgetts, 4, and owner Linda Wooldrage.